What has Congress done this winter in the forestry and irrigation cases? Did it do anything of importance in either, or on the public land question? Nothing in any sense spectacular but yet several lines of very considerable importance, and furthermore it refused to do several very bad things which were strongly urged upon it.

After a long struggle of years the law was passed consolidating all of having to do with the management of one bureau in the Department of Agriculture; this in effect 60 having to do with some five various branches in different departments. This gives the Secretary of the Department of Agriculture with adequate authority to fairly protect the forest, allow for the cutting and sale of ripe timber, and with power to arrest trespassers.

Several small bills desired by the Reclamation Service were fully carried out the irrigation law was corrected and readily passed by Congress, such as the bill to provide for the sale of the proceeds from the sales of the vast amount of partly used supplies, the bill to provide for the sale of the proceeds from the sale of the vast amount of partly used supplies, the bill to provide for the sale of the proceeds from the sale of the vast amount of partly used supplies.

The really great legislation of the session, however, was the repeal of the forest reserve law, which was passed in 1897, thus preventing the reversion in the future of all forest reserve lands to the public domain. Let Common Sense

Do you honestly believe, that coffee sold loose (to dust, germs and dirt) is as healthy as coffee sold in a tin? (It is them not even clean.)

LION COFF

Another story, I hear, selected for the health of the nation, where it would not do to secure pure flavor, strength.

From the factory to the consumer, it is a long and hard road. The Lion Coffee Co. is the only one that can guarantee the purity of its coffee.

There is no stronger proof of merit than the fact that the Lion Coffee Co. has been in business for over 50 years, and has never had a single complaint.
